PO 1025 American Government (4)
Analysis of structure, process and behavior in the American national government. Actual performance is evaluated in the light of the promise of democracy. Not open to students who have earned credit in PO 1020. Falls and Springs.

PO 1035 World Politics (4)
Why war? Is peace possible? Are relations among peoples predictable? How? Who has tried? Beginning steps toward an understanding of global political development. Not open to students who have earned credit for PO 1030. Falls. (GACO)

PO 2025 Public Administration (4)
Analysis of the nature of bureaucracy; recruitment, training, management and organization of civil servants; public unionism, problems of communication, allocation of resources and public budgeting process, administrative law; problems of public support. Not open to students who have earned credit for PO 2020. Falls. (DICO)

PO 2050 Comparative Politics and Government (4)
Introduction to the primary concepts and methodology of political science and comparative politics. Explores the similarities and differences of the governments of contemporary states. Structures and functions of modern national governments are examined in relation to dynamic political forces and institutions in multiple regions of the world. Not open to students who have earned credit for PO 1010 or PO 3510. Springs.

PO 3010 Topics in Political Science (1)
Topics in political science not normally covered in depth in other political science courses. May be repeated with a different topic for no more than 12 credits.

PO 3020 Topics in Political Science (2)
Topics in political science not normally covered in depth in other political science courses. May be repeated with a different topic for no more than 12 credits.

PO 3030 Topics in Political Science (3)
Topics in political science not normally covered in depth in other political science courses. May be repeated with a different topic for no more than 12 credits.

PO 3050 Political Analysis and Policy (4)
A study of the methodological and research techniques of political science, with particular focus on analysis of public policy. Explores approaches such as individualistic-psychological, rational, game theory, and techniques such as research design, survey research, quantitative analysis, and case study methods. Discusses principles and assumptions of political inquiry and the devices for gathering and analyzing data. Not open to students who have earned credit for PO 3680 or PO 3660. Fall of even years. (WRCO)
Prerequisite(s): (PO 1020 or PO 1025) and (MA 2300 or SS 3700 or SS 3705).

PO 3070 The Presidency and Congress (4)
Politics and process in the Presidency and Congress. The evolution of the branches in terms of their power and the interactions between them. How are members elected, in which ways do members define and perform their duties, and why do the branches sometime fail to perform as expected? Not open to students who have earned credit for PO 3590 or PO 3600. Spring 2019, Fall 2020, Spring 2023.
Prerequisite(s): PO 1020 or PO 1025.
PO 3815 Political Thought (4)
A survey of major schools of political thought from ancient to modern times. Students are expected to reflect systematically on such issues as human nature, the role of the state, our relation to the state and principles of good government. Not open to students who have earned credit for PO 3810.

PO 4010 Political Science Internship (1-12)
Students engage in work programs and thereby apply knowledge gained from major and minor course areas or concentrations in Political Science. Qualifications to be an intern are determined by the supervising faculty member. Once placed, student interns have both an immediate supervisor and a supervising professor in Political Science. Repeatable for a maximum of 12 credits. With permission.
Prerequisite(s): signature of the faculty supervisor.

PO 4910 Independent Study (1-3)
Background in political science through reading and research, supplementing previous course work in the field. A research paper, periodic conference and an oral examination may be required. Consent required of the instructor who will supervise the independent study and the Department Chair.